A.avi or.mov file type can be used, so that as many people as possible can view your work. This will also determine the resolution of the video that is being uploaded, but it will also determine how the video will be viewed when it is viewed on the web. I'm not going to go into too much detail on video types and resolutions, because if you need more information you can read other videos, but just in case, here are a few that you may be looking for. Full Screen Video: Viewing the video full screen is the best way to view the video because it maximizes the size of the video and it gives you a complete view of the video without scroll bars. You may also be given the option to see a thumbnail of the video which will be a few frames in size. If you click on the thumbnail it will open the full screen video to the full size that it was recorded. Standard Screen Size Video: If you upload your video in a standard resolution, that is usually 1024x768 and the image or the video is not full screen, the video will open in a small window and the video will be full screen in the window. Full Screen Video: If you upload your video in a full screen resolution, that is usually 1280x720 or 1920x1080 and the image or the video is full screen, the video will open in a small window and the video will be full screen in the window. Display Screen Size Video: If you upload your video in a display screen size, that is usually 1280x720 or 1920x1080 and the image or the video is not full screen, the video will open in a small window and the video will be full screen in the window. Web Site Video: If you upload your video in a web site resolution, that is usually 1280x720 or 1920x1080 and the image or the video is not full screen, the video will open in a small window and the video will be full screen in the
